

Figurehead Models

First we designed four prototypes for models we felt could work for the project based on primary and secondary sources. These models were then critiqued for their fallbacks and their triumphs.

After some deliberation, we decided we would produce a composite model that would take from the various prototypes we originally designed. This image was projected onto the beginning form and used to carve the full sized figurehead.